I have heard something about RTS electricity meters being switched off and I am worried. The meter in my mother's house is very old and her bills have two different rates, peak and off-peak. What will happen to her electricity supply?

Radio Teleswitch (RTS) Meters

are energy meters that let electricity suppliers switch between different tariff rates, or directly control when heating and hot water comes on, using radio frequencies. Those frequencies are due to be switched off in 2025 and all RTS meters will need to be replaced. Energy suppliers will need to increase their rate of changing meters significantly to meet the deadline.

When the signal is turned off RTS meters will no longer receive messages. This could mean they switch rates at random times after a power cut, or cut off altogether, leaving your mother with no heat or hot water, or they may stay permanently on, leading to very high bills.

Encourage your mother to contact her supplier urgently. They will probably replace the old meter with a smart meter. This can copy the old tariffs, switching between different rates at different times of day, just as your mother's electricity does at the moment.

Some RTS meters are in places where there's unreliable or no signal for smart meters to communicate. Suppliers have developed some technical fixes for this, like pre-programming the meter, which should allow most RTS customers to keep an equivalent tariff to their current one. Your mother's electricity supplier can advise on the different options available.

If you are having problems with the supplier, or they ask your mother to pay for the change, contact South Lakes Citizens Advice for help.

2025 DATES

Dear Friends,

From the earliest days of the Christian church, the message has been consistent and based on history: Jesus was tried and executed under the Roman governor Pontius Pilate in AD30 or thereabouts. He was killed and placed in a tomb which was empty three days later, after which his followers had many and varied encounters with the risen Christ. Those experiences went on for forty days but then stopped at the point they claimed he had returned to heaven. The body was never found, and the Christian movement began right away in Jerusalem – the preaching of the empty tomb was foundational from the start.

Something occurred that first Easter Sunday to change the disciples, utter nobodies and cowards, into world-changers. What was it? Millions have found the most credible explanation to be the Easter message: Jesus really did rise from the dead.

When sceptics cast doubt about the empty tomb of Jesus, it's not simply the historical sources that are questioned – did it actually happen? A modern doubting Thomas will perhaps question the possibility of life from the dead because at heart they doubt the existence of a God who is there, a God who can raise the dead.

Yet an atheist/sceptic already believes in 'miracles' where life comes from non-life. Without God, here are four such miracles:

Miracle 1: Everything has come from nothing.

Miracle 2: Order has come from chaos.

Miracle 3: Life has sprung from non-life.

Miracle 4: Consciousness has emerged from mindless matter.

Each of these is a form of the Easter miracle: they all involve life-from-the-dead powers of almost infinite proportions.

The God of the Bible, the 'Easter God' makes sense of such miracles. Christians believe that Jesus came to life in that tomb in Jerusalem at one point in time, but atheists must believe that all life in the universe rose from a 'grave' of nothingness. Moreover, such miracles of 'resurrection' somehow happened without a Creator God to perform them.

When the risen Jesus confronted the original doubting Thomas that first Easter, he told him, 'Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have believed' (John chapter 20 verse 29). How can we believe in this Jesus without seeing him?

Two verses later John writes: 'These things are written that you might believe.' In the Bible, we encounter the risen Christ. He impresses himself upon us, not as a dead teacher but as a living Lord. By the Spirit, he makes himself present to us with death-defying power.

Christ has died, Christ is risen, Christ will come again.
A happy Easter to you.
